

AKESAN BEGS BACKSTORY

An oily, sadistic, needle toothed, podgy, pointy headed wretch of a creature. He likes nothing more than to have fresh meat squealing in the rack of his custom built torture machines. He's a goblin of special repute. He is organized in his method of torture. Having studied the good parts of medicine, he has learned how to hurt a person most effectively. Also, he likes to suss out what increases the pain psychologically. Often, Akesan matches a persons least favorite sensory stimuli with well placed and personal insults. He doesn't torture for function, he tortures because he likes it!

Physically, he is big for a goblin (1.52 m and 45 kg) and weak. He has a pretty severe under bite that permanently displays is jagged, needle teeth. His arms are sinuous from twisting torture devices. His fingers are long and spindly and move with quick whip like motions. His feet are petite, supporting a knock-kneed gait. He waddles and spins around his fat gut with surprising agility as he croaks his favorite song. Every patch of blotchy green-brown skin that touches a smooth surface leaves a sickly smear of foul smelling viscous fluid.

As reprehensible as his body is, his mind is much worse. He derives joy in others pain. He derives even more joy in causing others pain. Moreover, he studies and notes what causes their pain. Akesan is not interested in capturing and combating his victims, he wants no risk to himself. He barely even touches his torturees and uses his machines to do it for him. He has several of them, and they can all be controlled remotely. He often creates horrible symphonies as he remotely tortures his charge.

For all of his autonomy, he is still just a tool of the goblin king. A fact he is loathe to admit, but a station he takes full advantage of.
